Congress Set for Action on Rail Strike

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is tooling up to move promptly on President Kennedy's recommendations to avert a nationwide railroad strike but few members think it can act in a week.

Congressional committee staffs have done considerable research and hearings are expected to start in both branches within a day or so, after Kennedy sends up his proposals on Monday.

Legislators said the length of time needed to pass a law will depend on the depth of the President's recommendations.

Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, said it "would be moving mighty fast" to get the bill through in one week before the July 29 deadline.

But there was some hope that if Congress showed a determination to act by that time, the railroads and unions might again decide to postpone the showdown.

Under an agreement made at the White House July 10, the carriers agreed to hold off instituting new work rules—which eventually would eliminate 65,000 jobs—until July 29. The five operating unions also agreed not to call a strike before then.

The President received a report Friday on the facts and issues in the dispute. Its contents will be made public today.

The President is expected to use the report as a basis for recommending legislation to solve the dispute and avert or stop a nationwide strike.

One highly placed member of Congress said he understood Kennedy would propose a narrowly restricted solution applying only to the current dispute.

According to this version, the three-man board headed by Judge Samuel Rosenman which previously made recommendations for settling the argument would be called back into the case. This time it would make detailed recommendations for solving all phases.

The work rules would be held in abeyance during this reconsideration.

Then there would be another 30-day period for bargaining by the rail lines and unions on these findings. Any items left unresolved would be settled by the board.

Boy Returns Tie to the President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pennant high school boy from Indonesia showed up at the White House gate today to return a tie clasp he took from President Kennedy Thursday during a near-riot on the south lawn.

Much to his surprise, he was ushered into Kennedy's office to return the clasp — and was given a substitute tie clip by the President.

Bowo Soerjosoedarmo of Malang in East Java, said he brought the clasp to the White House without prompting from anyone else because, "I felt bad for what I had done."

The Indonesian, 19, known to his American friends as "Bo," took the tie clip from Kennedy's hand as 1,500 foreign students milled around the President after a south lawn ceremony.

Bo explained that, in the mad crush, Kennedy was rather frantically trying to fasten his tie with the clasp that had come loose in the melee.

He said the President had the tie clasp in his hand and "didn't say no," when Bo asked if he could have it.

Bo appeared at the White House gate this morning with the tie clasp and a personal note of apology to Kennedy.

He said he told Kennedy in the note that he hoped Thursday's affair would not cause the President to abandon his annual custom of greeting the foreign students who regularly come to the United States as part of an exchange program sponsored by the American Field Service.

Bo personally returned Kennedy's tie clasp with an apology and Kennedy, in turn, handed him one of the gold "PT-109" tie clips which he often gives visitors.

Donna Axum Takes Lead in Contest

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Miss Hot Springs became a favorite in preliminary judging of the Miss Arkansas pageant Thursday night, while Miss El Dorado doubled her honors with a first place in the talent division.

Elizabeth Rose Woodcock, 18, took the swim suit division, a section of the contest won Wednesday night by El Dorado beauty Donna Sue Axum.

Judging in a third division, evening gowns, was held both nights, but winners are not announced.

Miss Woodcock, a Hendrix College sophomore, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodcock of Hot Springs. She stands five feet, five inches tall, has brown hair and brown eyes, weighs 115 pounds and measures 34-22-36.

Miss Axum, the 1962 National Cotton Picking Queen and a senior at the University of Arkansas, did the vocal solos, "I Love Paris" and "Quando Me'n Vo" for her talent number Thursday night.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hurley B. Axum of El Dorado. She has light brown hair, stands five feet, 6½ inches tall, weighs 124 pounds and measures 35-23-36.

A crowd estimated at 1,800—the same number on hand for the opening night event—attended the outdoor pageant in perfect weather.

The third round of preliminary judging will be held tonight.

Ten of the 43 beauties vying for the coveted title held by Elyce Addington of Texarkana will be named finalists at the opening of the final program Saturday night.

A luncheon in honor of Jacqueline Jean Mayer of Sandusky, Ohio, Miss America, was scheduled at noon today with Al Marks, president of the Miss America Pageant, as speaker.

Specialist Wants Stolen Records Back

MEMPHIS (AP) — A Memphis cancer specialist offered a $100 reward today for a brief case containing valuable charts and treatment records which was thrown from a stolen station wagon.

Dr. Ralph R. Braund said the briefcase was tossed from the station wagon traveling on U.S. Highway 70 bluff, Ark.

The station wagon was stolen here July 2 and the FBI later located the car and arrested a youth in it in El Paso, Tex.

The youth told FBI agents he could only remember that he threw the briefcase from the car on the north side of the highway a short distance west of a bridge. He said it landed in a ditch in some weeds.

Dr. Braund, head of the West Tennessee Cancer Clinic, said the briefcase contained records of some 20 patients being treated at his office.

The loss will not endanger any of the patients, Braund said, but it will cause considerable difficulty.

Whole World Joins Common Celestial Cause

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists and children, and people of all occupations and ages, joined in common celestial cause this morning—hoping for clear skies to see an eclipse of the sun.

The rendezvous of moon and sun will be visible during afternoon hours throughout the continental United States, but with the moon covering only part of the glowing disc.

Only in a 60-mile-wide swath through Alaska and Maine will the eclipse be total, with day turning to night and stars popping out, with comets possibly becoming visible in their flirtations with the sun.

There, with an array of carefully tuned instruments, hundreds of astronomers and other scientists waited aground for the rare opportunity to analyze the sun's pearly halo or corona, its temperatures and changing structure, the bending of starlight passing close to the sun, the airglow, and other phenomena.

Racing eastward in airplanes with the moon's swift shadow, American and Canadian scientists will extend their time in the total eclipse by up to 44 seconds.

Aground, the eclipse will be total for about 100 seconds in Alaska to about one minute in Maine.

Rocket scientists will be busy, too, firing instrumented rockets from Canadian and U.S. launching sites to measure changes in the ionosphere, the electrified layer high in the earth's atmosphere, and for special observations at great height of the sun's spectrum when the sun first is obscured and then cleared.

Radio astronomers will bounce radio signals off the moon, and by the behavior of the returning echoes trace changes in the ionosphere as night comes suddenly upon the eclipse.

The eclipse begins in Japan at dawn, and the path of totality then sweeps about 10,000 miles in 2 and ¾ hours. It zips across the Pacific to touch Alaska late in the morning, Alaska time, then across Canada and into Maine at about 4:45 p.m., EST.

Maine expected a heavy influx of visitors, hoping to see the sunlight cut to one-millionth of its normal intensity, and such phenomena as Bailey's Beads, the last flashes of the sun shining through valleys and gorges on the moon's rim, and — when the sun is totally covered — possibly the licking tongues of great outbursts of incandescent gases—the solar prominences.

For everyone outside the lucky zone, it will still be an interesting show, with the moon gradually blocking part of the sun's face up to some point short of total, then moving clear. Skies will dim a bit where the eclipse is great enough.

Negro Ruled
Justifiable

MARION, Ark. (AP) — The death of a 17-year-old Negro chased into a field by a group of white citizens and sheriff's deputies and fatally shot after a mother said he molested her daughter was ruled justifiable homicide Thursday.

Coroner T. H. McGough, who conducted the inquest at which the ruling was made, said there was no testimony as to who shot the Negro, Andrew Lee Anderson, of Vincent, Ark.

The shooting occurred Wednesday after the mother of the child said she saw a Negro molesting her eight-year-old daughter on the lawn of a home.

The mother testified Thursday she told the Negro to stay where he was because she was going to get the sheriff. She said he ran and she started driving down the street of the community yelling for help.

Neighbors and relatives of the family joined in the chase of the Negro and he ran into a bean field, where he was shot in the leg with a high-powered rifle.

Sheriff Cecil Goodwin said Anderson halted several times during the chase and threw up his hands as if to surrender, then ran again.

Sheriff's deputies testified they took Anderson to a West Memphis hospital about five miles to the east, at speeds of over 80 miles an hour.

Physicians testified it was difficult to treat a severed artery in Anderson's leg, because he thrashed around widely on the operating table.

Shrine Hospitals for the Crippled Children Might Be Greatest Philanthropy

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Do you know what is regarded as "The World's Greatest Philanthropy"? The Shrine's Hospitals for Crippled Children.

From virtually the outset in the Mystic Shrine of North America there were those who realized that it must become something far greater than a mere playground for Masons! The planners and the thinkers realized that eventually the Shrine would become tremendous not only in numbers but in potential value to itself and to all mankind.

Men of faith believed that at times, in the course of human history, the Divine Creator whom we call God has planted a great ideal in the mind of a certain individual. In the moral and spiritual realms history was changed by such inspired souls as John Wesley, St. Francis of Assisi, William Booth, and D. L. Moody. Sir Isaac Newton and Louis Pasteur were among the leaders in the field of science.

Shrine's Hospitals for Crippled Children were begun 41 years ago, and God must have touched the heart and mind of Honorable W. Freehand Kendrick in 1919 when he first launched the idea. It was undertaken for the purpose of doing something for friendless, orphaned, and crippled children. Every member of the Mystic Shrine paid $2 a year for this work from its early beginning until 1935 when, of necessity, the assessment was increased to $5 annually.

The nearest Shrine Hospital, in Shreveport, La., was also the first one established. The date was September 16, 1922. A few months later the second hospital was built in Honolulu, Hawaii, thus giving an international aspect to the great work. Probation for Counterfeiter

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Virgil O. Assay, 34, of Batesville, who pleaded guilty to making 300 counterfeit $10 bills by tracing their outline on plaster of paris, was placed on probation for three months Thursday by Federal District Judge Gordon E. Young.

Assay said he was experimenting on how to make counterfeit bills so he could help police catch some men who had been passing bills in the Newport area.

The U.S. Secret Service said Assay engraved the hardened plaster with a knife after tracing the outline of a $10 bill on it. He poured liquid rubber over the plaster, then made plates for the engraving, agents said.

Agents described Assay as having a third-grade education and no formal training in art or engraving.

Assay said he showed some of the bills around and some were stolen from him. He said "they got caught trying to pass them."

He was not charged with passing the bills.

12 Persons Executed in Lebanon

By WEBB MCKINLEY

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's strongman Maj. Gen. Amin Hafez announced today 12 persons have been executed for taking part in Thursday's revolt against the Ba'athist Socialist government.

The executions showed the Ba'athists determination to remain in power at all costs against attacks either from backers of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic or dissident forces in the military.

The men were executed in three groups.

A colonel identified as Hisham Shabib, seven noncommissioned officers and four civilians were tried by a court-martial formed by the National Revolutionary Council and quickly executed, Radio Damascus said. Six of the men were from the army signal corps.

The radio broadcast Hafez' statement after announcing a new curfew had been clamped on Syria and the population warned to stay indoors or be shot.

Glenn Not Ruling
Out Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. said today he's not ruling out any kind of career — including politics — after he leaves the space program.

But, he said, the odds are that he'll be on the astronaut team for some time to come.

Glenn, a Marine lieutenant colonel, called a news conference to deny that he is "a pseudo-political candidate."

He said speculation that he might run for the Senate in his native Ohio "was as much news to me as it was to anyone."

Glenn said he doesn't regard a post-astronaut career "as an immediate problem."

"I am, however, unwilling to categorically state that I will not do anything in the future, and that includes business, the Marine Corps, NASA, politics, or any other kind of endeavor that might be a possibility."

There have been reports Glenn might run for the Senate seat now held by Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

4 Bond Issues at Siloam Springs

SILLOAM SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Four proposed bond issues totaling $355,000 will be submitted to Siloam Springs voters in a special election Aug. 20.

The bond issues include $80,000 for refunding an existing general obligation bond issue, $30,000 to construct and equip a fire station, $67,500 to construct and equip a city administration building and $177,500 to expand and improve water and electric systems.

Going to Be a Family Wedding

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — It's going to be a family wedding—the Harmon Whitehursts, their daughter, and maybe their son.

The Whitehursts will be remarried Aug. 4 in the same ceremony in which their daughter, Bethel, 20, weds William Amos Spencer of Oklahoma City.

And Herschel Whitehurst, 18, the family's oldest son, is negotiating with his fiancée to move their wedding from September to Aug. 4.

Officiating at the ceremony will be the Rev. Y. D. Whitehurst, father of Harmon.

The whole thing was brought about by Arkansas' 1941 law which voids marriages in which either partner was under-age on the wedding day.

The Whitehursts were married by a judge in Newport, Ark., when he was only 17. The groom must be 18, the bride 16, under the law which recently came to light.

The Social Security Administration has said it will not pay widows' and widowers' benefits to persons who are not legally married. Arkansas has no common law marriage provision.

The Whitehursts, who work in a shoe factory in Jonesboro, found it convenient to set their second wedding date to coincide with that of their daughter. Her husband-to-be graduated from high school at Bay near Jonesboro this year and is working in Oklahoma City.

The Whitehursts also own a large farm. They have two young children.

"Mother and daddy didn't have much of a wedding," said Bethel, who works in an office. "They want to do it right this time."

Herschel said he and Dorothy May 18, of Bono, had planned to marry in September.

Harmon Whitehurst is a native of Batesville. In 1941 he went to Grubbs, Ark., to work on a farm and met his wife-to-be, Evelyn Ballard, the daughter of a farmer.

They were married in Newport on Sept. 5, 1941 when both were 17.

They moved to Jonesboro in 1952. Their other children are Reba, 16, and Yarnell, 14. The Whitehursts live four miles northwest of Jonesboro near Bono.

The wedding will be in the Union Grove Methodist Church, four miles northwest of Jonesboro. Rev. Whitehurst is a resident of Rector.

Nikita's Offer Makes Summit Meet Hopeful

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's offer to ease cold war tension with a sweeping set of war prevention proposals raised hopes today of an early East-West summit conference.

Some diplomatic sources indicated the proposals involved so much that not one but a series of summit conferences may be necessary.

The Soviet premier offered Friday to back up a nuclear test ban agreement with a nonaggression pact and a system of airfield and railroad inspections to prevent surprise attacks.

He also gave the first official indication that U. S.-British-Soviet negotiations here are fast approaching a formal agreement to ban all but underground nuclear tests.

Khrushchev said he would like to see the agreement include a ban on underground explosions, but implied such a pact may not be immediately possible due to the impasse over on-site inspections.

Appearing in warm good humor, Khrushchev made his proposals in a 90-minute speech at a meeting honoring Hungary's visiting premier and Communist Party leader, Janos Kadar. The 6,000 persons present interrupted him repeatedly with applause and cheers.

Khrushchev's proposals may be elaborated later today when U. S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to resume their test ban negotiations.

With the test ban, Khrushchev said he also wants a nonaggression agreement between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its Communist counterpart, the Warsaw Pact. He first tied the two together in a July 2 speech in East Berlin.

Realizing a package deal would encounter rough sledding, he opened a new way to negotiations.

July weather entrenched in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
July weather entrenched itself more firmly in Arkansas today and the Weather Bureau said there was little chance the outlook would be for anything but more hot weather through next week.

High temperatures Thursday were generally in the 90s; although Fort Smith reported 100 degrees for the second straight day. Highs this afternoon were expected to hit the record 102 in 1943.

Overnight lows ranged from the low to mid 70s, but Gilbert recorded a 65, the record set in 1910.

A few light showers fell along the Mississippi River in northeast Arkansas Thursday, but most sections of northern Arkansas continued to report near drought conditions.

The high pressure area that had hovered over the Gulf of Mexico or the past several days moved into the southeastern states today, but continued to force warm, humid air into Arkansas.

The forecast called for clear to partly cloudy and hot through Saturday with isolated mists afternoons and evening thundershowers. Highs this afternoon and Saturday were expected to range 94-102. Lows of 70-76 were predicted for tonight.

Temperatures during the next five days were expected to average one to four degrees above normal with only minor daily changes. Normal highs range from near 90 north to 95 south and normal lows from 67-72.

Wildly scattered thundershowers over the weekend and early next week were expected to produce one-half to one inch of rain fall with a few areas getting two inches or more.

Beat Kennedy Move in South Not Strong

EDITOR'S NOTE — In an attempt to block President Kennedy's re-election, some Southern Democrats are promoting an unpledged elector movement. Their object is to have the House of Representatives select the next President. The Associated Press surveyed the South to see how the movement is faring. The findings are the subject of the following story by Jack Bell, AP political writer.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unpledged elector movement aimed at forcing the choice of the next president by the House of Representatives appears to be withering on the political vine in Dixie. An Associated Press survey of 11 Southern states indicates that in only three — Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina — does there appear to be any significant possibility that major party nominees might be denied electoral votes.

Even if the sum total of 25 electoral votes of the three states were withheld — which doesn't seem likely — the action would be effective only if the next election provided the closest electoral vote outcome since the Wilson-Hughes contest of 1901. Woodrow Wilson won the presidency by a margin of 23 electoral votes.

Under the Constitution, the House selects the president only if none of the candidates receives a majority of the electoral votes. If the House renders the verdict each state delegation casts a single vote, regardless of the state's size.

Despite the closeness of the popular vote results in 1960 President Kennedy still would have been elected if the 25 had been lopped off his 303 electoral vote total. Election in 1964 will require a minimum of 270 electoral votes.

Govs. Ross Barnett of Mississippi and George Wallace of Alabama have been promoting the independent elector scheme as a means of defeating Kennedy's bid for re-election.

But Democratic politicians outside their states — and some within Wallace's — are wary of bolting. Republicans, hopeful of collecting some Southern electoral votes for their party's nominee, don't like the move.

Here is how the situation shapes up on a state by state basis: Mississippi — The unpledged elector movement, supported by Barnett, appears likely to be successful if the Republicans choose a liberal candidate.

Under state law, party conventions could put both loyalist and uninstructed delegations on the ballot of a primary to be held after the national conventions nominate their presidential candidates. The delegation which lost would be dropped from the general election ballot. It could petition its way onto that ballot, but could not use the party emblem.

Mississippi gave its nine electoral votes to the States Rights ticket headed by Strom Thurmond in 1948. Its eight unpended electors voted for Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., in 1960.

Alabama — Wallace has urged Dixie Democrats to join in a movement he says can keep either major party candidate from getting a majority of electoral votes. He said this would "create compounded confusions from which we can gain some meaningful concessions."

Despite Wallace's stand, Sens. John Sparkman and Lister Hill are expected to support the national Democratic ticket, as are several House members.

Alabama gave its 11 electoral votes to the 1948 States Rights ticket. It split its 1960 votes, giving Kennedy five and Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., six.

South Carolina — E. P. Riley, Democratic state chairman, thinks it's too early to predict whether there will be an unpended elector movement in the state.

J. Drake Edens, Republican state chairman, said history has proved that unpended electors may "offer some attraction in theory" but never work out.

When Thurmond was governor and headed the States Rights ticket in 1948, he got 39 electoral votes including South Carolina's eight. The state went to Kennedy in 1960.

North Carolina — Bert Bennett, dropped, and, opening it, poured a shower of paper "money" on the table.

"See, my only love!" he cried. "I have not been idle! Here is the fortune I vowed to lay at your feet."

Again they embraced fervently. Then Miriam stood back from her lover-husband and proudly said, "Nor have I been idle! I have done my share, too!"

And, turning, she drew aside a curtain and brought to view a row of cradles in which reposed six baby dolls — intended to represent Miriam's contribution to the family wealth during her husband's absence of one year.

THE PONIES ARE HIS RIVAL

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: After our baby came my wife lost all interest in me as a man. I didn't hold it against her for she had a hard time, what with my family yapping at her, a baby to nurse and housework to do.

But now that I'm earning more money and we have a part-time maid the situation has deteriorated further. Instead of doing a rehabilitation job on herself and the house, my wife squanders our money at the racetrack.

When we married, she was the prettiest thing going — a real peach. Today she looks like an overripe beefsteak tomato — all bulges and no shape wears blousy old clothes and is indifferent to everything but racetrack literature.

Our living room is strewn with scratch sheets, deposters' tips and yesterday's racing programs. It makes no difference to her that there are holes in the carpets, grease spots on the upholstery and cigarette burns on the side tables.

I'd like to bring a business associate or friend home on occasion but am ashamed to. Last night I was ready to tell her that either she lives up to her part in the marriage bargain or I quit. Instead, I kept my mouth shut and am writing you from the office. I love my wife and am grateful to her for giving me a fine, healthy son. How can I get her to snap out of this? —Had It.

Dear Had It: Since your wife has turned from a peach into a tomato, you'd better stop being a mouse and start roaring like a lion. Something very vital is missing from your home as you picture it.

You write that your wife lost all interest in you "as a man," after your child was born. Maybe you weren't behaving like a man.

It's fairly common for husbands' noses to be out of joint when the first-born arrives. But this is the first time I've heard of a man being jealous of a horse! You exonerated your wife's neglect of you on the grounds of having a baby and housework to

Democratic state chairman, says the unpended elector movement "is against North Carolina's way of doing things."

Robert Gavin, who recently resigned as Republican state chairman, observed: "I think the fight in 1964 is going to be between the regular Republican and the regular Democratic party."

North Carolina always has voted with either the Democratic or Republican parties.

Virginia — A bill for unpended electors which died in the Virginia Legislature in 1962 may be offered again next year. But State Sen. Thomas H. Blanton, Democratic party chairman, said "it won't amount to much — it never amounted to anything in the past."

Walter R. Gambill, vice chairman of the state Republican party commented: "The next president of the United States will be elected by the Democrats or by the Republican party. We can't afford to be playing games with any unpended elector movement. It's a lot of waste motion."

Virginia has not gone Democratic in a presidential election since 1948.

Tennessee — Having voted Republican in the last three elections, Tennessee no longer is considered part of the once solid South. Any movement for unpended electors would have to come at next spring's party convention but there are no signs of any campaign for it.

tend to — not exactly an unusual or overwhelming responsibility.

As a first step back toward manhood, tighten up the purse strings and fire the maid. She doesn't sound very efficient to me, anyway, if your house is always in a mess. As the breadwinner, you should have more control over family finances.

Taking care of a small boy and a house, without benefit of a maid, would leave your wife little time to follow the races.

Such an unreasonable absorption in gambling is a symptom of a real need that your marriage is not meeting. Like alcoholism, it's a form of escape. Make every effort to find out the underlying cause. Your wife's behavior is an indication of basic unhappiness. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, for my leaflets, "Ideal Husband."

Dear Helen! I am a young housewife with two small children, one going on three, the other nine months old. Our third child is due next month. We live on a 200-acre dairy farm and employ a hired man. Currently he is a high school senior living here during the entire year with the exception of weekends at his home in another county.

Do I have to wash, iron and mend his clothes? I did for the previous boy but it got to be such a chore, I said, "Never again."

My husband doesn't agree although my mother and friends figure the laundry and mending isn't my job unless I get paid for it. My sister-in-law charges boy student roomers extra for this service. I wouldn't charge — only be glad if it wasn't obligatory. I sure would appreciate an outsider's opinion on this. —Overworked Wife

Dear Overworked: Let this able-bodied teen do what the boys in the Army do — pay a nominal fee (to someone else, not you) during the week "on the post," or take his clothes home to Mama on weekends. Save what strength you have for the time when you'll be running a laundry service for your own — not that you aren't already.

Meanwhile, don't overtax your strength. Remind your husband that doctors' and hospital bills, plus a housekeeper would cost considerably more than what the hired hand's laundry is worth.

Dear Helen: I work six days a week in the housekeeping department of a big hotel. My husband is 28, I am 23. We've been married eight years and have two children. Two years ago my husband strayed. I filed for divorce but he begged forgiveness so I gave him another chance. The children need him. Now he's cheating again, this time with a friend and neighbor. I am at my wits end. Once more he begs forgiveness. What shall I do? —Francie

Dear Francie: Some men are born polygamous. Maybe your husband comes under that category. In that case, compromise is the key word if you still feel that your children are better off with that type of father. A little soul-searching on his and your part might help. Where have you failed as a wife? Where has he as a husband? Obviously you both know the answer to the latter question but it will help him to find himself if he puts it into so many words. Sit down, talk it out and — keep your temper!

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican State Chairman William L. Spicer of Fort Smith, Ark., was one of 16 state chairmen cited today by the Newspaper Newsday as indicating that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has a commanding lead in the pre-convention contest for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

Newsday, which describes its political position as independent, quoted Spicer as saying, "(New York Gov. Nelson) Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage hurt him down here."

The Long Island newspaper's state political editor, Stan Hinden, talked by telephone with the state chairmen, or men who have just held that post, in all sections of the nation.

He reported today that these leaders believe Goldwater is ahead in 12 states: Arkansas, Florida, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Oregon, West Virginia, Wisconsin and in one western, one midwestern and one northern industrial state where the spokesmen declined to be identified.

Hinden said the political leaders either said Goldwater and Rockefeller were close or declined to rate them in four states: California, Maine, New Hampshire and Washington.

Reuther Urges Broader Civil Rights Plan

By CARL P. LUEBBS DORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter P. Reuther urged Congress today to strengthen President Kennedy's civil rights program.

Among other things, he suggested direct payment of damages to persons discriminated against in public facilities.

"Not only the patron but the public-spirited proprietor will benefit from an enforceable public accommodations measure," Reuther told a House Judiciary subcommittee.

Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers, said the President's proposals provided "a strong first step" towards guaranteeing "all Americans equality in law and equality in fact."

He told the congressmen in his prepared statement: "Your committee cannot do less than he has asked; we urge it to do more."

Among other proposals which Reuther said the group should add to the President's seven-point civil rights package were:

1. A federal fair employment practices commission;

2. Federal voting registrars "who will make the right to vote an American reality";

3. Broad authorization for the attorney general to "protect all constitutional rights of Negroes"; and

4. An immediate start in all school districts on desegregation. The Judiciary subcommittee hearings, which began shortly after Kennedy submitted his program June 19, marked the only congressional action on the civil rights front today. The Senate Commerce and Judiciary committees are in recess until next week.

In his vigorous backing of the public accommodations proposal, which would outlaw discrimination in privately owned businesses serving the public, Reuther stressed the need for "a strong bill (that) will let those who open their facilities to everyone, do so with confidence that others will have to do likewise."

"Toward this end, we would urge that the committee consider, in addition to the sanctions now in the bill, providing that anyone who has been wrongfully excluded from a public facility be entitled to recover a flat sum in damages."

"Discrimination in public facilities has been a national disgrace for far too long," Reuther said. "By ending it now, by protecting every human being from Maine to California against the colossal indignity of a refusal of service, the 86th Congress will only be catching up at long last with the 44th Congress."

That Congress passed a similar law in 1875, but it was declared unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1883.

ALC Takes Up Bible Ruling

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Legislative Council took upon itself today the task of explaining to the public the ramifications of the United States Supreme Court's Bible reading and prayer decision regarding public schools.

The council turned over to its Judiciary Committee a proposal by Benton County Rep. Roy Galyean, a Baptist minister, that the decision be studied and Arkansas educators be informed as to the extent to which they may now use the Bible and prayer in classrooms.

Galyean said there was a widespread misunderstanding of the decision which, in effect, outlawed compulsory prayer and Bible reading.

This was the only new business handled by the council today. It received various committee reports and adjourned after about 30 minutes.

Cambridge Braces for More Trouble

By JOHN WOODFIELD

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — The threat of renewed demonstrations hung over this city today as a state-proposed mediating committee delayed stepping into the racial dispute.

Negroes called off further demonstrations Thursday when State Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan said the racial relations committee of the Maryland Bar Association would try to find a common ground for agreement.

Finan said the lawyers' group would come to Cambridge by Saturday at the latest.

However, William McWilliams, chairman of the committee, said he had not been contacted by either Finan or the governor's office about the committee's role before he read about it in the newspaper Thursday morning.

McWilliams, an Anne Arundel County lawyer and former judge, said his group would meet Wednesday in Baltimore to decide whether or not it would enter the Cambridge picture.

Finan bemoaned the misunderstanding saying:

"I had been contacted by the president of the bar association about the existence of such a committee and that they could help in racial matters and they would be glad to do so," Finan said.

Stanley Branche, field secretary of the NAACP from Chester, Pa., and leader in the Cambridge integration movement, declined to comment until he talked with McWilliams who was out of town Thursday night.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes announced he will address the people of Maryland tonight over radio and television on the racial problems confronting the state.

There were indications that the governor would discuss the feasibility of having the National Guard stationed in Cambridge federalized. Guard troops have been keeping an uneasy truce since July 12 after six persons were wounded during a night of racial violence.

Tawes has estimated that the state must spend $25,000 a week to maintain these troops. Should the guard be federalized, the national government would take over the guard's operating expenses.

Finances of AM&N Are Under Fire

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The audit report on Arkansas AM&N College at Pine Bluff touched off its annual dispute in the Joint Legislative Auditing Committee today.

The main area of argument this year was an accounts receivable item of $46,860 representing uncollected student fees from 319 students.

Sen. Dan Sprick of Little Rock questioned the item and wanted to know if other colleges showed a similar experience in collecting fees.

On a motion by Sprick, the AM&N audit report was held up for further consideration. A delay is routine whenever one member requests it.

Legislative Auditor Orvel Johnson said the situation was not as bad in other colleges and Sprick demanded to know why.

"I'm against favoritism to this school," Sprick said. "The citizens should be informed about what's going on down there. There is a lot of laxity and I don't like it."

Committee Chairman Q. Byrum Hurst sprang to defense of AM&N. "I think they're doing a fine job," the senator from Hot Springs said. "These students can't pay."

Several committee members remarked that the AM&N audit was in remarkably good shape compared to some of those of previous years.

"Don't we have this every year?" asked Rep. Ode Maddox of Montgomery County.

"It's much, much better," Johnson said.

Sprick also questioned an accounts receivable item of $1,200 which the audit report said represented money due for post office rent which Dr. Lawrence A. Davis, the college president, had not turned into the college account at the time of the audit but which he paid later.

"This amounts to, then, that when we catch him, he pays it back, doesn't it?" Sprick asked.

Rep. Doris McCain of Monroe County said she felt that the AM&N board was working hard to solve all the college's problems and said she had heard educational authorities comment that of education with the amount of money it gets.

The committee routinely approved audit reports on the Assessment, Coordination Division, Real Estate Commission, Geo-compulsory prayer and Bible reading.

This was the only new business handled by the council today. It received various committee reports and adjourned after about 30 minutes.

Tries to Get Along With Congress

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two and a half years ago Saturday President Kennedy moved into the White House. In that time he has consistently followed a policy of trying to get along with Congress.

This is an exact duplicate of President Eisenhower's policy and the exact opposite of that of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman who tried to get along until they got mad.

In Kennedy's case trying to get along with a Congress run by his own Democrats has meant avoiding fights with members of the House and Senate even when they ignored his pleas and his programs.

The result has been less than all-out fighting, on his part, for what he asked. He has reserved his get-tough tactics for problems outside Congress, particularly when they meant big domestic crises.

When the governors of Mississippi and Alabama defied federal court orders to let Negroes into their state universities, Kennedy used troops to back up the courts and brush the governors aside.

And he used the prestige of the presidency — by denouncing them — to force the steelmakers to withdraw a price increase when they tried to effect one contrary to his understanding that they wouldn't.

And in the foreign field Kennedy got about as tough as a President can get, since defiance might have meant war, when he told Premier Khrushchev to get his missiles out of Cuba. Khrushchev melted.

But Kennedy hasn't been that way with Congress.

He proposed medical care for the aged and made a total of one speech for it. The American Medical Association led the fight against it and Congress did nothing.

He asked for federal aid to public schools. Congress did nothing and Kennedy didn't try to knock any heads together.

He asked for a tax cut. Judging from the way Congress is going, that, too, may land in the ash bin. In none of these three instances did Kennedy or Congress show signs of feeling pursued by a sense of urgency or danger or the unpredictability if nothing was done. Individuals might suffer from inaction, but there was no concern about explosions.

The older people weren't going to riot in the street, the schools weren't going to close, and the economy wasn't going to collapse if taxes weren't reduced.

But it is different now with Negroes' demands for equal treatment and Kennedy's proposal to Congress to pass a law to protect their civil rights.

Now Kennedy is confronted with a critical problem which may become a crisis and truly involves Congress, for what will happen if Congress doesn't act, or simply passes a half-baked bill, is definitely unpredictable.

Kennedy has shown—in his public speeches, his broadcast to the nation, his news conference remarks and his civil rights message to Congress—that he is aware of the militant mood of Negroes and its implicit dangers if frustrated.

Even so he became aware late. He didn't send his big civil rights message to Congress until Negroes through their demonstrations forced upon the country's consciousness their determination to get equal treatment at last.

But it isn't clear yet that Congress feels the same sense of urgency he now exhibits. There Kennedy faces from his own Southern Democrats and others the most intense opposition of his 30 months as President.

Talking may not be enough. He may have to do in-fighting.

Punishment Already Served

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Two 10-year-old boys came before juvenile court today charged with breaking into a grocery store and stealing five boxes of chocolate laxative, thinking it was candy. "What did you do with it?" asked county and juvenile Judge Lon Warneke. "We ate it, sir." "All five boxes?" "Yes, sir." Warneke said that was punishment enough. He put them on probation.

Duck Supply Brought Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Merrill L. Petoskey, biologist for the Michigan Conservation Department, said today restrictive hunting regulations have been necessary because drought has cut the supply as such species as mallards, black ducks, canvasbacks and redheads.

He told a House Merchant Marine Subcommittee that, without long range consideration, it is possible that waterfowl may be reduced to levels that might preclude hunting.

During the past several years, Petoskey said, some states have been putting pressure on the Fish and Wildlife Service to liberalize seasons and bag limits for hunting waterfowl.

"This is being done," he said, "in spite of the critically low levels in populations of several major species, caused by deterioration of breeding habitat from drought."

Petoskey said hunters from his state do not like short seasons and smaller bag limits any better than others. But they do feel, he continued, that objective considerations of the waterfowl resources are paramount to other considerations.

Thomas Evans, supervisor of game management of the Illinois Conservation Department, said he favored whatever curtailments on hunting were needed to insure an adequate supply of waterfowl.

William P. Thorn, executive director of Ducks Unlimited said the duck population for the 1962-63 season was equal to or larger than the 1961-62 season.

He said the findings of Ducks Unlimited was contrary to a statement last fall by the Fish and Wildlife Service that there would be a decline in duck population for the 1962-63 season.

Wrong Man Serves 13 Yr. Sentence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Joseph Smith, 45, has been set free after spending 13 years in prison for a crime he didn't commit.

He was released Thursday by Judge Theodore Reimel because two alleged accomplices admitted he had been framed and had nothing to do with a $800 check cashing service holdup for which all three were convicted.

One of the men, George Clark, 40, told the judge he lied at Smith's trial in 1950, in return for a promise of a light sentence given by officials whose names

he said he couldn't remember. Joseph Farro, now 41, supported Clark's testimony at the trial, presumably, court officials said, for the same reason.

An attorney retained by Smith's 71-year-old mother first got Clark to admit he lied.

Smith, who never married, said that although he brooded much during his early prison years he now wants only to bury the past. What about the future? Smith said he has 12 songs he hopes to sell. He has also learned electrical work.

"That's all over now. I just want to live."

The average "lifetime" of a Tires weather satellite is about four months.

Lazy Man's Guide to Nat'l Issues

EDITORS NOTE: Politicians and squirrels have something in common—at least the squirrels in the following fable. Read on, and get a rabbit's-eye view of living on a family budget.

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Political fables for our time, or, a lazy man's guide to national issues: How To Win Friends

Once there were two squirrels, Wilbur and Ezekiel.

From nesthood, Wilbur seemed marked for great squirrelhood. It was he who launched the campaign to hide more acorns so more mighty oaks would from little acorns grow.

It was he who devised the plan to scare the sneaky cat by dropping nuts at him from high places. It was Wilbur who first made the daring leap to the wire that led to the birdfeeder and the sunflower seed.

A natural born leader," the other squirrels said. Zeke was a howza squirrel. "Howza girl? Howza boy?" he would ask, smiling affably the livelong day.

"You can't help liking Zeke," the other squirrels said. Both ran for the same office the same year, and while everyone agreed Wilbur was one smart squirrel, there was some discord. Someone pointed out that sometimes the birdfeeder was empty. Another remembered the cat still prowled about.

Still another doubted the wisdom of planting those acorns, since oaks grow so slowly. "An acorn in the jaw is worth two under the toystia," this doubler said sagely.

Zeke won in a breeze. With his great capacity for offending no one, his political future looks brilliant.

Moral: The politician who takes for firmest stand is apt to be the first to be knocked flat.

Fiscal Responsibility
Hortense and Horace got married early—rabbits usually do—and, kids, they lived it up. All those kids, all those expenses.

One day while Horace was figuring the bills, he got all hopped up over the way things were not improving, and he said: "Deficit spending is immoral."

"It sure is, sweetie," said Hortense. "We should operate on a budget," said Horace.

"Let's," said Hortense. So they settled down to the dreary business.

But Hortense soon recalled the living room furniture was tacky and Horace said he thought he had better keep up his membership in the golf club, and they began throwing fiscal rabbit punches at each other, and three days later they were again, trying to make a deal with the man at the finance company.

Moral: Of course, anyone can save money—in the abstract.

he said he couldn't remember. Joseph Farro, now 41, supported Clark's testimony at the trial, presumably, court officials said, for the same reason.

An attorney retained by Smith's 71-year-old mother first got Clark to admit he lied.

Smith, who never married, said that although he brooded much during his early prison years he now wants only to bury the past. What about the future? Smith said he has 12 songs he hopes to sell. He has also learned electrical work.

"That's all over now. I just want to live."

The average "lifetime" of a Tires weather satellite is about four months.

What makes a champion? What is that extra force inherent in a great leader, teacher, musician, scientist, or a Christian? This extra force, this compelling quality, this something has a current all its own... out-shining our every-day efforts. It turns the common into the outstanding. It has been called "inspiration" and surely it must be just that. Want to possess it??? Of course! — then keep an open heart, a clear unprejudiced mind, clean body, and a receptiveness to the will and word of God. Learn of Him through regular church attendance and daily reading of His word. Only through God may we find this something, — this force, — this inspiration. "There is a spirit in man: and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding."
